Placement

Proper logo placement is crucial for maintaining our visual identity. When placing our logo on different backgrounds, choose the version that stands out most prominently.

Ideally, position the logo at the top, either on the right or left, with a preference for the color version. The color logo should be placed on a white background; if the background is not white, use the Top Left Corner shape behind it or choose an alternative logo version.

On our blue gradient, the negative version is also suitable.

Additionally, the color logo may be placed at the bottom right, but only with the Bottom Right Shape behind it.

Equipment Logos

Logo Placement

Our logo distinguishes us on the drill floor, making us recognizable to drillers and service personnel. The logo should always be placed horizontally and prominently on equipment.

Exception: When branding equipment with limited surface area for branding, the logo may be used vertically (rotate 90° counter-clockwise) for better visibility. This exception must be reviewed and approved by the Marketing Team.

New Equipment

New equipment should feature the HMH logo: white on dark surfaces (e.g., red, blue) and black on light surfaces (e.g., yellow or white). Do not use legacy logos (e.g., Baker Hughes, Hydril® Pressure Control, MHWirth, Wirth™) on new products, except where they are integral to the casting or forging process.

Service/Overhaul Equipment

Products that come to our shops will be serviced using the same protocols historically employed. Legacy logos should be replaced or repainted with the HMH logo when practical and cost-effective; historical documents, manuals, or drawings already sent to customers do not need updates.

09 Branding

Equipment Colors

Color Standardization

To strengthen market recognition and support safety standards, HMM products and equipment utilize the following standardized color codes:

- Lifting Equipment (drill floors): Yellow
- Topside Drilling Equipment (excluding lifting equipment): Red
- Well Control Equipment:
 - Surface Stacks: Red
 - Subsea Stacks: White

Logos Usage

Use the HMH logo exclusively in all communications, including presentations, marketing materials, email signatures, purchase orders, quotes, and product branding.

Legacy brand names (e.g., Wirth™, MH™, Hydrii® Pressure Control) may be used in written form only for specific contexts, such as product names or active legal entities, and must clearly connect to HMH.

Legacy logos should only be used in presentations that highlight our history and heritage.

11 Legacy Brands

Naming & Labelling

Examples of Existing Products

- BOPs and Diverters: Include “Hydril®” (e.g., Hydril® Compact RAM BOP).
- Mud Pumps, Drawworks, Slurry pumps, Pile Top Drill Rigs: Include “Wirth™” (e.g., Wirth™ Mud Pumps).
- Top Drives and selected topside drilling equipment: Include “MH™” (e.g., MH™ PTD 500).
- Risers and Digital Solutions: Avoid legacy names; use HMH before model names if needed. (e.g., HMH MR-6 Riser).
- Digital Technologies offerings: beAware™, DEAL™, drillView™ GO, eTally™ maintain their names and could also include HMH in front of them.
- Products and categories without strong brand associations maintain their name or remain generic, e.g., skids, guides, trolleys, etc.

- The Drillform brand has been retired, and its product line has been integrated into the HMH brand. The Bulldog name will continue to be used as a product line identifier specifically for roughnecks and power slips, but it will no longer be used for catwalks.

New Products

- Avoid using legacy brand logos in manufacturing, except on product labels.
- New products should not display legacy logos on their main bodies, however, there is no need to alter the manufacturing process for products that incorporate legacy brand logos in the casting or forging process.
- Follow the existing naming approach, leverage legacy brand names for products/categories with strong historical ties/brand association (e.g., Hydril® electric BOP, MH™ Top Drive).
- Use only the HMH logo on new documents and drawings. Legacy logos may appear on product labels/ID plates but not elsewhere.

Legal Entities

HMH is our global brand name and it doesn't appear on contracts as a legal entity.

While our parent company is HMH Holding B.V., some legal entities retain legacy brand names. For example, MHWirth AS is our main legal entity in Norway for contractual processes, and Hydril PCB Limited is active in the UK. These names must be used in contracts and legal documents, but should not be replaced by business unit names.
